ABOUT ME

Personal and Professional

My Name is Carolina Virreira, originally from Tarija, Bolivia. I am currently finishing my undergraduate degree in Industrial Engineering with a minor on Data Analytics.

Throughout my life I experienced a lot of changes, and I improved the ability to adapt to new environments. My Dad gave my family and I the opportunity to explore the world. In 2013 my family moved to Ras Al-Khaimah, UAE for two years. In 2016 we moved to Jeddah, Saudi Arabia for one year. These experiences exposed me to a completely new culture, lifestyle and religion. Especially when coming originally from South America. Finally, in 2018 I moved to the United States to complete my Education. Being able to move and adapt to new environments gave me the necessary tools to maintain a good and happy life, no matter the place I am.

I enjoy reading books, exercising, spending time with family/friends, and going for walks with my dog. During high school I very much enjoyed doing horseback riding at a competitive level.

I have always had many different interests, that is why I chose Industrial Engineering as my major. Industrial Engineering has so many different path to take, that gave me the flexibility of exploring different areas.

On the past 4 years while completing my degree, I realized how much more I can continue to learn. I am a very curious person, and I love to learn new things. For my professional life, I had two internships that exposed me to a real work environment. I enjoyed and learned very much with these opportunities.

I am looking for opportunities where I can grow as a person and as an Engineer. I strongly believe that the skills and knowledge needed come by hand with the type of environment you are on daily. I am highly interested on Data Analytics, Ecommerce, Lean six sigma, Continuous process improvement and Logistics/ Planning.
